SCOUTING

THE SHOPS with Sally

● Do you ever get that bored feeling, as if nothing were exciting any more? Let us recommend the Hilltop Lodge. It's loads of fun, and they've just adopted a 15c policy. We were there last night, and did we have fun! The floor is simply huge, and the musis is gay and modern (And the food luscious).

● If you haven't tried some of the delectable little French and Italian pastries yet from the Geneva bakery, you're missing something. They're really different.

● For unfailing courtesy and promptness, we give you the milkman from the Mission creamery. Mission creamery's milk is pure and fresh each morning.

● If you like tender, young garden vegetables, you will be interested in the specials at Westlake this week. For instance you can get a cauliflower, one pound of tomatoes, two cucumbers and a head of lettuce all for 25c. They're serving free chocolate Saturday, too.

● If your radio makes funny noises, it's time to take it to Byrne's Radio store. Why have all the grand entertainment that comes over the air ruined when Byrne's will repair your radio so quickly and so inexpensively?

● Of all the things put into cans these days, our vote goes to shoestring potatoes. You just pop them into the oven for a moment and they emerge all crisp and golden brown, to dress up any dinner. One can serves the family, (two cans are selling at Milo's this week for 15c). Did you know that Milo's is selling candy and gum at 3 for 10c now? Milo's also has some nice fresh black codfish, 20c a pound; and racks of lamb, 27c a pound, as well as some excellent fruit and vegetable combinations.

● Bette Davis and Bing Crosby—no, it's not another Hollywood scandal. We were merely remarking that there are two very excellent reasons for attending the Daly City theatre Sunday, Monday or Tuesday.

● If that egg a day is running up your grocery bill, why not

These huge skates, used to announce the Venice, Calif., roller skate derby, attracted attention wherever they went. Five feet long, they were used to give the kids coaster rides up and down the beach.

NEW SCHEDULE OF EXPOSITION EVENTS

Betty Grable, Rubinoff and his violin, Jack Haley, Alec Templeton and Benny Goodman and his band will be on hand, three different States will celebrate their special days, the draft horse show will be underway, two "Dime Days" for children are scheduled, and scores of other special events will be provided for visitors to Treasure Island during the week from Saturday, July 22 to Friday, July 28.

Three Shows Daily

The leading luminaries from the entertainment world listed above will be appearing for a one week's engagement, starting Friday, in the new Treasure Island theatre, marking a new high in entertainment for the Exposition. With Jack Haley as Master of Ceremonies, Miss Grable, Rubinoff, and Templeton, the blind pianist, will present three shows daily. Each evening the popular Benny Goodman will play for jitterbug dancing.

Idaho Day will be observed on Saturday, with a special entertainment program, and North Carolina Day will bring another special event on Sunday.

The Folies Bergere, that saucy French revue in the California auditorium, will continue to hold forth as an outstanding attraction on Treasure Island during the week.

Acknowledged as the biggest show of its kind ever held west of Chicago, the Draft Horse Show will have its concluding three days on Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

"Dime Days"

"Dime Days" will be in effect on Saturday, which has been set as Childrens' Day, and again on Monday, July 24. On these dates children under 12 years of age will be admitted for 10 cents, those from 12 to 18 for 25 cents.

Other important events for the week will include: General Motors Day, Salvation Army Day, Pacific Manifolding Day and Travelers Protective Association Day on Saturday, July 22; Vallejo Evening Chronicle Day on Sunday, July 23; the Presbyterian Conference on Monday, July 24; Chicago Day and Order of Ahepa Day on Wednesday, July 26; and others.

Talent Parade

The Treasure Island Talent Parade will come to a conclusion on the evening of Sunday at the Chrysler exhibit in Vacationland. At that time ultimate winners in the contest, which has been under way for some weeks, will be selected in both the juvenile and adult divisions. Prizes will be awarded to all finalists, and the winner of first place in the entire contest will be given a free trip to New York.

General Motors Day, Saturday, will bring automotive dealers, their families and friends from points throughout California, Nevada and elsewhere to Treasure Island for an all-day program of entertainment.

Cartoon Family Head Fair Parade

And it's heigh-ho, heigh-ho to the fair we go as Walt Disney's cartoon family leads the parade in presenting the advertising of California's eighty-fifth annual state fair at Sacramento September 1 through 10.

Soon, from the Oregon line to San Diego, Mickey Mouse, Minnie, Pluto, Ferdinand, Donald Duck and the Three Little Pigs will greet the eye urging attendance at the world's largest agricultural exhibition.

Mickey has Pluto on the leash and heads for the main gate with a happy invitation to follow. Donald Duck rides in on Ferdinand who heads for the flower show, but ends up doing his stuff pulling a covered wagon.

Once inside Mickey has a scooter on which to tour the grounds much to the disgust of the more dignified Minnie.

The Three Little Pigs arrive in a merry mood, skillfully avoid the barbecue pits and finally cast their fortunes with the boys and girls of the 4-H Clubs and the Future Farmers of America.

All this comes about because Walt Disney, as his share in promoting the state's greatest show, granted the fair directors and Secretary-Manager Robert Muckler permission to use his cartoons for advertising without cost.

About 200 of the nation's leading tea executives concluded a two-day merchandising forum at the New York World's Fair by drinking coffee "for a change."

Champion

Miss Dianne Stewart was crowned All Sports Queen at Paso Robles, Calif., when she captured first place in swimming, diving, tennis, badminton, golf and archery contests with more than 50 beauties.

The official register of the New York World's Fair should be priceless to autograph collectors by the time the World of Tomorrow becomes the Fair of Yesterday. Already the register carries the autographs of Kings, Presidents, princes, ambassadors, and countless other important international figures.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

MR. BLACKSNAKE GOES HUNTING

MR. BLACKSNAKE lay sunning himself on a grassy bank. He was a handsome fellow, was Mr. Blacksnake, and he was quite well aware of it. In fact, Mr. Blacksnake was quite proud of himself. He was proud not only of his good looks, but also of the fact that few can run faster than he, that he can climb trees, and that there are more who are afraid of him than that he is afraid of. The fact that nobody likes him didn't enter his head, but if it had it wouldn't have troubled him. The truth is, Mr. Blacksnake is a good deal of a bully. He delights in scaring people. There is nothing he likes better than to see them afraid of him. He is the most impudent of all the little people who live on the Green Meadows or in the Pretty soon there was a crowd around him, all screaming at the top of their lungs.

Green Forest. He runs his tongue out at everyone he meets, even Farmer Brown's boy. But really he is a great coward.

Just now, as he took his sun bath, Mr. Blacksnake was trying to decide what he wanted for dinner. This was the time of year when he could pick and choose. Later in the season he would have to take whatever he could catch, but just now it was an easy matter to catch what he pleased.

"Let me see," said he. "I might run over to the Smiling Pool and pick up a few of those foolish young frogs who are so conceited because they have got rid of their tails. They would taste very good, very good indeed. But it is a long way over there. Young Meadow Mice wouldn't be bad. I could eat a couple without any trouble. If I didn't feel so lazy I would go hunt for some. The trouble is, Reddy and Granny Fox and Whitetail the Marshhawk have been Mouse hunting all the morning, and probably have frightened all the Mice, so that I would have to hunt a long time, and I don't feel like it. I believe what I want is a nice, tender, young bird; perhaps two or three, if they are not too big. They are very good eating, and they are so easy to get. All I have to do is to find a nest and then help myself. I believe I'll go up to the Old Orchard and see what I can find there."

Mr. Blacksnake yawned once, or twice, and then lazily uncoiled and started for the Old Orchard. There was no need to hurry, so he took his time. When he reached the old stone wall on the edge of the Old Orchard he curled up on a big, flat stone to rest a bit, and at the same time watch what was going on. He did not try to keep out of sight. In fact, he chose a stone where he would be in plain sight of anyone who happened that way. He wanted to be seen. Yes, sir, he wanted to be seen. He knew that whoever saw him first would make a great fuss, and then everybody in the Old Orchard would hurry over to scream at him and call him bad names. Those who had helpless babies in their homes would be the most anxious and frightened, and so he could tell without the trouble of a lot of climbing which nests had young in them, and which had not.

It was a very simple plan, and it worked out just as he had expected. He had not been curled up on the flat stone of the old wall five minutes before Chatterer the Red Squirrel came running along. If Chatterer had been as heedless as Peter Rabbit often is, Mr. Blacksnake would have had a squirrel dinner, but Chatterer's bright eyes saw him in time, and he stopped just out of reach. Then how Chatterer's tongue did go! "Robber! Thief!" he yelled, and added every bad name he could think of. Right away all the birds in the Old Orchard hurried over to see what the trouble was, and as soon as they saw Mr. Blacksnake they, too, began to scream. Pretty soon there was a crowd around him, and all screaming at the top of their lungs. Mr. Blacksnake didn't move. He just lay there, watching them with eyes that never blinked, for you know he has no eyelids, and now and then running out his tongue in that most impudent way.

All the time he was laughing to himself down inside. He was laughing to think how easily he was finding out what he wanted to know. Those who were simply angry he knew had no babies to worry about. They took great care not to come very near. Those who were reckless and kept dashing about within reach of him he knew had helpless babies, and were in great fear. Among these was Drummer the Woodpecker. As soon as he saw this Mr. Blacksnake made up his mind. He would have young woodpecker for his dinner.

Railroad Commission Announces Lower Rates

One million dollars in savings to domestic and commercial natural gas customers of Pacific Gas and Electric company, become effective on August 1. - President Ray C. Wakefield or the California Railroad commission said today as the new, lower rate schedules were made public.

The rates are designed to afford the greatest percentage savings to the small home resident and commercial customer, he said, although in many communities and in all unincorporated areas the minimum charge has also been reduced. Wakefield pointed out that successive rate reductions, resulting from the commission's policy of continuous investigation, have reduced the cost of natural gas, since 1933, by 24 per cent, to the average customer.

The minimum charge in unincorporated areas in this district has been reduced from $1.15 to $1.05 per month. In the city, rates have been reduced to effect a savings of $.04 per month for 1,000 cubic feet of gas; and $.18 per month for 3,600, 5,000 and 10,000 cubic feet.

"UNION"

The romance of Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea is one "union" that comes in for a good share of the spotlight in "Union Pacific," Cecil B. De Mille's epic story of America's first transcontinental railroad, now playing at the Daly City theatre. Miss Stanwyck and McCrea play a frontier pair who aid in the great feat.

Stanwyck and McCrea Lovers in New Drama

Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea, who were seen together as a pair of ultra-modern lovers two seasons ago in "Internes Can't Take Money," return to the screen against a background of the 1860's in Cecil B. De Mille's "Union Pacific," now playing at the Daly City theatre.

"Union Pacific," a grand-scale romance of the building of America's first continental railroad, stars Miss Stanwyck as the fiery daughter of the "U. P.'s" first engineer and McCrea as a handsome trouble-shooter who meets her on the plains of Nebraska. Others in the cast of thousands are Akim Tamiroff, Robert Preston, Lynne Overman, Brian Donlevy and Robert Barrat.

Companion Feature

"The Lady and the Mob," featuring Fay Bainter, recent Academy Award winner, and Ida Lupino is companion feature. The new film relates the novel story of a determined Social Registerite who, when racketeers invade her community, knows exactly what to do when authorities prove helpless. She fights fire with fire by getting herself a "mob", then routing the criminals with their own brand of "heat." In the large supporting cast are Warren Hymer, Lee Bowman, Henry Armetta, Tom Dugan, Harold Huber, and Forbes Murray. Ben Stoloff directed from a story by George Bradshaw and Price Day.

Hilltop Lodge Announces New Policy

Fred Wood, Daly City's genial night club host at the Hilltop Lodge, recently announced a new fifteen cent policy.

"The Hilltop," says Fred, "is one of the finest night clubs on the peninsula—large dance floor, dance band nightly, excellent American and Chinese food, sparkling drinks (inexpensive too) and refined atmosphere."

The Hilltop is the place to have fun. Fred invites you to get the old gang together and come on in.

During their recent visit to the New York World's Fair, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth were presented with a gold trylon and crystal perisphere as a memento of the theme of the exposition.

Treasure Isle Vista

stop at Robertson's Egg Store and buy a dozen nice small eggs for only 18c? If your husband still wants the big ones, Robertson's have them, 26c, fresh from the farm.

● Speaking of your better-half, you might remind him that that old rusty razor of his is past its prime. Now is the time to replace it with a new Gillette razor and five Gillette blades for only 49c, a one-week special at Edwards Drug store. (If you yourself have always longed for the luxury of a nice soft bath brush, the regular 40c kind are only 25c now.)

● Farmer's Meat company have some unusually nice spareribs this week, 19c a pound. With browned potatoes and green salad, they make a dinner fit for a king.

● Also fit for a king—or queen—are the new Wedgewood stoves A. M. Harrison is showing. It's surprising how a modern kitchen can become the most attractive room in the house.

● No agricultural display ever looked more tempting than Lucca Ravioli's market does this week, with fresh peaches, nectarines, plums, and apricots in season. We hate to bring in pork and beans, but Val Vita are our favorite kind (seasoned like home-baked beans), and they're 3 cans for 13c at Lucca's this week. If you want something different and something delicious, there is Italian Style tuna, 3 for 23c.

● If you're thinking of buying a new refrigerator, by all means stop in at Charlie's, 7330 Mission street, and see the new General Electric refrigerators on display there. They're really beautiful, and inexxpensive too.

● The children will love the free balloons given away this week by the Daly City Cut Rate Market with every giant package of cornflakes. And who would bother to wash and iron napkins when you can buy attractive paper ones at 4½c for a package of 80 at the Cut Rate? For the rest

The famous Lindbergh-Carrel mechanical heart, the device on which the world-famous transatlantic flier collaborated with the world-famous scientist, is one of the focal points of interest in the Medicine and Public Health Building at the New York World's Fair.

An exhibit of star rubies worth about $1,000,000 has been opened to the public in the Consumers building at the New York World's Fair. The jewels in six showcases were assembled by Jamaldeen Ahamed, who had them sent to the Fair from Ceylon.

The 500 paintings on display in the Masterpieces of Art Museum at the New York World's Fair are valued at $30,000,000. All the great artists in history are represented in the collection.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

LITTLE MITE'S GREATEST ADVENTURE

BLACKY the Crow and his equally black relatives were having a perfectly glorious time in Farmer Brown's cornfield. You know there is nothing that Blacky likes more than he does newly sprouted corn. He always has a glad feeling when in the early spring he sees Farmer Brown ploughing up the brown earth of the cornfield, because he knows that in a few weeks he is going to have a feast. Farmer Brown knows it, too, and so does Farmer Brown's Boy. They have sat up nights trying to think of some way to prevent Blacky from having that feast. They have tried all sorts of plans for frightening Blacky away from the cornfield, but he is so smart that he soon sees through their plans and just laughs at them. He never yet has failed to have at least one good feast when Farmer Brown's corn was young and tender.

What possible chance had a wee, frightened Meadow Mouse with such a huge creature as now held him.

That was what he was doing now and all the time he was eating he was making fun of the scarecrow that Farmer Brown's Boy had taken such pains to make look like a man with a gun. Blacky had been quite sure from the beginning that it was perfectly harmless, but it is not Blacky's way to take any chances and so he had waited to be positive about it. It was Little Mite, the lost baby of Danny Meadow Mouse, who had made Blacky positive that that scarecrow was harmless. Mite had made a bed for himself in a pocket of the old coat which the scarecrow wore and Blacky had seen him running in and out of it. He had known right away then that this was only a make-believe man and at once he had called all his relatives to the feast.

Little Mite never had heard such a noisy crew and as he timidly peeped out at the big black birds having such a good time he had a queer feeling that something was going to happen. All of a sudden Blacky, who was sitting on a fence post taking his turn at keeping watch, shouted "Caw, caw, c-a-w!" There was a great flapping of wings and all talking at once and laughing, and having a great time Blacky and all his relatives flew away. Mite didn't know just what to make of it. He crept out of his hiding place and watched them settle down over on the Green Meadows still talking and laughing as if they thought it all a great joke. He wondered why they had left when they were having such a feast and good time. He was so busy watching them that he didn't notice anything else. Without any warning a great voice cried, "Ha!"

Little Mite looked up to see a great giant on two legs close beside the scarecrow. Without waiting for a second look he scrambled into the pocket of the old coat and burrowed down under the grass and cotton padding of which he had made his bed, his little heart thumping with fright so that it almost hurt. He hoped with all his might that he hadn't been seen and he held his breath as he waited for what would happen next. He didn't have long to wait. The pocket was opened and a great hand slipped in and lifted him out, bed and all.

Mite was too frightened to move. He just sat perfectly still except that he trembled all over. He couldn't help that, you know. What possible chance had a wee, frightened Meadow Mouse with such a huge creature as now held him? He was perfectly helpless, and he knew it. He just shut his eyes and waited for something terrible to happen. But nothing terrible did happen. Instead he felt something stroking him, very gently. By and by he ventured to open his eyes. A freckled face was bending over him and somehow it didn't look fierce or cruel at all.

"You little rascal!" exclaimed a great voice. That is, it seemed a great voice to Little Mite. "You little rascal! You knew a good thing when you saw it, didn't you? I don't believe any of your enemies would ever think of looking for you in a scarecrow's pocket. I believe I'll take you home with me."

Then Mite and his bed were put into another pocket just like the one he had been taken from, only this one was the pocket of Farmer Brown's Boy. He didn't know where he was going or what was going to happen, but somehow he didn't feel so much afraid. It was his greatest adventure, but somehow he felt that it was going to come out all right.

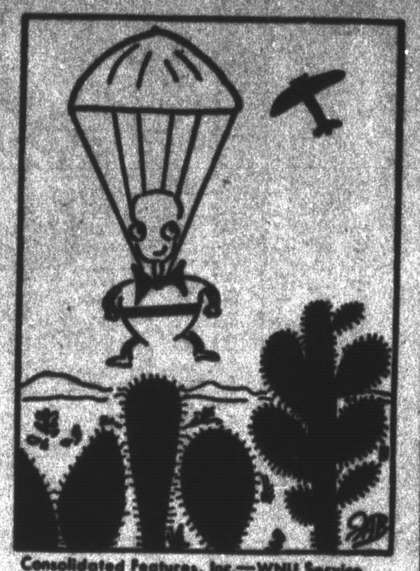
FLYING

By FREDERIC A. BIRMINGHAM



Consolidated Features, Inc.—WNU Service.

FLYING in a plane is a matter of going so fast sideways, gravity takes a shellacking.

Modern man thinks he has equalled the bird. But no plane has been devised yet that can carry a fish in its propellor.

Flying today shows off the beauties of nature better than ever before. One hostess is prettier than another.

It is an open secret that Man has conquered the air. During a hurricane, however, he is not apt to bring the subject up very often.

The largest and most modern public address system in the world is located at the New York World's Fair and unobtrusively entertains throngs of visitors day and night with musical selections ranging from the hottest swing to the most staid classic.

Those Naughty Nineties!

The American "Can Can" was one of those dances nice folks didn't see in the gay 90's, and it's revived as one of the scenes in the "Cavalcade of The Golden West" at the Golden Gate International Exposition. Cavalcade, on the world's largest stage, portrays in gripping, dramatic fashion, 400 years of romantic Western history from discovery of the Pacific Ocean to modern days. The dancers are Leslie Loring (left) and Jean Boyer.

The Y. M. C. A. Building at the New York World's Fair is one of the most popular exhibits. There are several comfortable lounge rooms for men and women, a cafeteria, a popular-priced coffee shop and a terrace restaurant.

● Do you hate cold baths and waiting for water to heat and skimping on hot water for dishes? So do we. Why don't you stop by at S. N. Pfeifer's today and see how easily you can own an automatic hot-water heater?

● For that just-stepped-out-of-the-bandbox air of smart grooming, try the Beeson cleaners. Their careful attention to detail will make a world of difference in the appearance of your clothes.

● You pay nothing down if you buy a new Biltwel gas furnace now from the Daly City Sheet Metal Works. Their proposition is definitely worth investigating.

● One last suggestion: if you don't feel like getting a meal one of these lazy summer days, why don't you eat at Jinx? They serve home-cooked food that's wholesome, inexpensive, and good. Plate lunch is 25c and merchants' lunch 35c.

A giant medicine cabinet, 20-feet high, forms the proscenium arch of the stage in the Hall of Pharmacy at the New York World's Fair and symbolizes the family's first line of defense in the battle against disease.
